

ABSTRACT

The invention relates to the generation of mouse mammary adenocarcinoma cell lines which express estrogen and progesterone receptors as a tool to study the effect of hormones, pharmacological compounds and environmental agents. The invention also 5 relates methods in vitro and in vivo for testing hormones or another related molecules by cell proliferation or tumor proliferation.

PCT/US2001/02630